ARCHOS unveils its Mate family of AI-enabled devices supporting Alexa, Amazon's voice service

The ARCHOS Mate sets innovation at a higher level by adding the image to the voice, for extended experiences with Alexa, Amazon's voice service, as of October 2018, starting at €99 and $99.

Paris – Tuesday, June 12th, 2018 – ARCHOS combines the image to the voice within its range of AI-enabled devices, coming in stylish 5 and 7 inch designs and embedding best-of breed technologies, including voice recognition microphones and speakers, to embrace and extend the richness of Alexa, Amazon's voice service.

Created by the team of ARCHOS' designers in Paris, the Mate places itself as an elegant device, completed in noble materials, in 5 or 7 inch formats.

The ARCHOS Mate sports a high-definition display, a high-fidelity omnidirectional sound system, a quad-core processor, Bluetooth and Wi-Fi connectivity, a 5 MP camera, two microphones, a 1,500 mAh (5-inch version) or 3,000 mAh (7-inch version) battery.

Accessible anytime, by just asking, the ARCHOS Mate will become the essential companion for:

- everyday life: visualization of calendar, weather forecasts, cooking recipes, shopping lists and orders, timers and alarms, questions and answers about news and information
- communication: managing video calls with family and friends
- connected home: controlling lights, security cameras, heating or air conditioning systems
- entertainment: music, photos, videos, games

ARCHOS Mate delivers a superior level of service for many day to day tasks. It not only gives the list of ingredients and utensils to create the recipe of "Boeuf Bourguignon" but will also suggest the viewing of online tutorials to have it perfectly cooked.

Availability and Pricing

The ARCHOS Mate devices will be available as of October 2018, starting at €99 and $99.
